

Bird Owner With A Cause

Follow these tips to give back to the bird community

By Marissa Heflin

Americans gave about $295 billion to charities in 2006, $6.6 billion of it going toward environmental organizations and groups working for animal welfare, reported Giving USA, a publication of Giving USA Foundation, researched and written by the Center on Philanthropy at Indiana University. In turn, these charities distribute money toward animal-related causes.

With so many organizations and causes, how, exactly, do you go about finding one that best represents your ideologies and interests? For bird enthusiasts interested in donating, there are several resources to help you navigate the multitude of organizations.

For the full article, pick up the September 2007 issue of BIRD TALK

Did you like this excerpt? Subscribe now to read more like it.