

On the Road?

Follow these travel tips to avoid bumps along the way.

By Jessica Pineda

All of us do some traveling from time to time, either for vacation, the holidays or on business. When it's time to travel, you have several options available on what to do with your bird. You can board your bird, have a bird sitter take care of your bird, or you can take your bird with you! For the full article, pick up the 2010 issue of Birds USA or click here to buy the issue.
